

Sailing Residential with The Cirdan Sailing Trust

An off-shore sailing residential aboard a Cirdan vessel is not just an adventure; participants become part of the crew and take an active part in all aspects of operating the vessel and life on board both above and below deck. Alongside the professional crew, they work as a team to plan their voyage, make decisions, learn new skills and have great fun!

The Cirdan Sailing Trust has been operating for over 30 years and has taken in the region of 32,000 young people to sea. Feedback over the years confirms that the experience is a very effective way of building character traits recognised as being essential for success in education and employment such as;

- Resilience
- Teamwork
- Tolerance
- Motivation
- Confidence
- Focus

The Cirdan Sailing Trust operates under regulations laid down by Department for Transport, Maritime and Coastguard Agency (MCA). We are also a prominent member of ASTO (Association of Sail Training Organisations), an Approved Duke of Edinburgh Activity Provider and a recognised RYA Training Centre.

The trust is fully insured to cover its legal liabilities.

The crew are DBS cleared and experienced in working with young people.

Depending on the voyage there is an opportunity for the young people to gain RYA accreditation (at varying levels) whilst on board.
